SHoP harnesses the power of interdisciplinary expertise to create architecture that makes our cities more vibrant, more beautiful, and more rewarding places for all to live. Operating from its studios in New York, the critically-acclaimed firm has a staff of 180 talented people and projects completed or underway on five continents. At the heart of SHoP's work is a respect for the expressive potential of traditional architectural materials, and a pioneering technological capability that transforms them into inspiring statements for the world of today. SHoP presents an immersive look at the design of SITE Santa Fe's coming expansion, accompanied by an examination of the studio's process and work.
